Green Chautauqua Presents:
Climate Crisis: The Case for a Carbon Tax

Peter Joseph
Citizens Climate Lobby

Dr. Joseph is group leader of the Marin Chapter at Citizens Climate Lobby and an emergency physician trained to help educate the public about the devastating impacts of global warming. He is the co-author of The Little Engine That Could: Carbon Fee and Dividend, the Popular Choice winner in the U.S. Carbon Price category of this year’s MIT Climate CoLab contest. Dr. Joseph will propose an economic solution to the climate crisis that can be acceptable to conservatives and progressives alike.

A suggested donation of $10 is payable at the door.

About Green Chautauqua
A speaker series dedicated to bringing the latest research on climate change to the Marin community. We believe that through awareness and understanding we will be better equipped to respond to one of the most urgent problems of the modern era. Visit www.togetherweserve.org/green-chautauqua.
